THIS PAPER BELIEVES IN HELPING A PUBLIC OFFICIAL PERFORM HIS DUTIES. FEARLESS TO CRITICIZE HIM IF HE FAILS.

PLANTING SEASON DEMANDS FANTINE AND TIGE BE SHOT

When public sentiment gets started on this old foot stool, it moves as certain and with the same precision as Banquo's ghost. Now it appears that Fantine and Tige must go. Spring has come and people are making garden, fixing lawns and planting flowers and shrubbery, and Fantine and Tige come along and play havoc with everything. They hold carnival in the yard, jump into the garden, run around the square and by the time they reach the far corner, a dozen of other doggies have joined the party and there is a veritable bunch. They bark, dig, scratch and do a lot of other things, and the citizens have become aroused and want the dog catcher or the dog shooter.

A man rushed into the office yesterday and asked that some agitation be started to clear the town of its worthless curs. We directed him to the borough clerk for information, but he refused to go, claiming that the newspaper office was the place to start public sentiment and that the writing force ought to be game.

We told him that some one would pick out of the article that it was a personal thrust at him and carry a sore place in his bosom against us for a long time. He argued that we ought to be better soldiers than that. So that's the reason that this agitation has started against Fantine and Tige. Of course it is to be expected that some person who has an innocent pet doggie will get sore about any agitation against the wholesale and illegal existence of the dog, but how are we to help it. How are we to please the dog owner and the gardner all at the same time? They are separate factions and all readers of the paper. But what's the use? There are too many unlicensed dogs in the town. Shoot them.

MONESSEN PA. OLYMPIC HOME OF THE PIPE ORGAN

Today at the Olympic the ninth episode of "The Exploits of Elaine." We believe this episode surpasses all the previous ones. Also one of the world's greatest comedians in "The Fatal Note." It is a scream and we guarantee that it will make the house roar. This picture is Billie Ritchie's best production as "The Champion" which we have Monday, April 26, is the best production of Charles Chaplin.

Thursday, "A Fool There Was" in six reels. This is the only production in the world which has been repeated two and three and as high as six times in the same house in the same town or city. Our patrons certainly will miss a great picture if they let this opportunity pass. It proves once and for ever woman's control, or better say triumph over man. It looks as if it is a bitter dose to man, but it is true. So man must take his medicine coolly. "Kiss me fool, kiss me," the woman says. At the Olympic tomorrow. 1t

Motorist Upheld in His Contention

Jess Miller was before the burgess this morning charged with violating section 11 of the traffic ordinance which provides that no motor vehicle shall pass a street car when the car is unloading passengers.

It seems that the street car had stopped between streets and was letting passengers alight in front of the post office when Mr. Miller drove his car past. He took the position that the street car had violated the law in stopping between crossings. The burgess exonerated the motorist.

WOMAN GROWS HYSTERICAL WHILE IN A LOCAL CHURCH

A peculiar spell came over Mrs. Frank Bonini while in a local church this morning about 9 o'clock. Mrs. Bonini apparently lost all reason and became hysterical. She was quieted by some friends who were about the church and taken to her home on Chestnut street. She refused to stay in the house, broke away from everybody and returned to the church where she continued to carry on in a hysterical manner. The patrol wagon was called and the woman taken to the police station and later dispatched to the Monessen-Charleroi hospital and placed in the care of a physician. When the first spell came on, the woman had three small children with her. Mr. Bonini works in the Tin mill and he was notified at once of his wife's condition. The cause of the trouble or the exact condition of the woman have not as yet been discovered.

Legislation to Assist Boroughs to Fight Water Companies

In 1919 this town will have an opportunity of taking over the interests of the Monessen Water company, now the Tri-cities Water company, according to a contract made with that concern when its franchise was obtained with the borough. The time limit of the contract will then be up.

Will the town be in a financial position at that time to go into Municipal Ownership negotiations is a question that wise councils from henceforth should look to. If the price seems too exorbitant however, and if proper arrangements cannot be made according to an act introduced into the legislature, the town can then go ahead and construct its own water system. This form of legislation was the outcome of the unsatisfactory attitude toward boroughs of the Publis Service Commission.

John W. Vickerman of Allegheny, sponsor of the bill, said the measure was prompted by the troubles experienced by Bellevue and other Allegheny county boroughs over water rates. Hesaid the municipalities had been unable to get any relief from the commission.

Mr. Vickerman made this statement: "I accompanied members of the Municipal Home Rule League to the governor and we discussed the subject with him. This bill is the result of that conference. The boroughs have had a bitter experience in their dealings with the Public Service Commission. Water rates have been doubled in my territory and we have fought the case for months, but the commission has not given us relief. I have a letter written by Samuel W. Pennypacker, chairman of the commission, in which he indorses this bill. Why then should we oppose it? This bill simply gives the municipalities of the state the right to regulate their own affairs."

Following this bill the House passed finally the Steedle measure requiring a municipality-first to try to purchase the plant of a public service company operating in its territory before building one of its own. Mr. Forster opposed the legislation. The bill passed by a vote of 165 to 11. Neither the Vickerman nor the Steedle bills have been considered by the Senate.

HOUSE VOTING ON LOCAL OPTION AT 3 P. M.

(Special to the Daily Independent)

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, press time, a direct wire from Harrisburg, is to the effect that the vote is just being taken on the Williams Local option bill. This bill was the order of business for 11 o'clock today, but at the above hour, the vote was just being taken.

Thieves Visit Sampson Farm

Chicken thieves entered a coop on the John Sampson farm across the river last night and got away with twenty chickens and two fine big turkeys. The theft was not discovered until this morning when a member of the family went to feed the fowls. They were gone. Word was dispatched to the police along the valley to assist in capturing the culprits. The loss is a big one to Mr. Sampson at this season of the year.

200 Men Backing Chautauqua

Two hundred business men of Monessen are signing a paper pledging themselves to financial support of a summer Chautauqua for the benefit of the local firemen. The Chautauqua was such a success last year that it was deemed advisable to hold another this season. This is a chance to help something of an educational nature and also boost the Volunteer Firemen who have gratuously done so much for the town. No person should withhold his name from the paper.

NOTICE AUTOISTS

A warning is hereby given that an obnoxious bill has been introduced into the legislature at Harrisburg which inflicts an unbearable burden upon automobile owners if it becomes a law. It is house bill 1471 doubling and trebling the license fee on automobiles. We ask you to wire or write your representatives at Harrisburg to help kill this measure. Do it today or the measure will be railroaded through.

MEN DISORDERLY WERE FINED

Frank Merako and John Polostao of Twelfth street were charged with disorderly conduct before the burgess this morning. The charge was preferred by the boarding mistress of the house in which Merako stayed. It appears the men had been given lodging by their friends throughout the winter on account of not being able to secure work. Yesterday the men decided to leave, and when they informed the woman of the house that they were going, she ran after them, and a bystander came to her assistance and handed them over to the police.

This morning they were given a chance to pay a fine of $1.00 and costs or $2.50 or serve a couple of days in jail. They took the sentence. The boarding boss of both men went down to the squire's office and made information against them to get the money for board. The case will be heard before the squire today.

Mad Ambition Rules

When that bunch down at Harrisburg becomes imbued with the idea that a new law is needed, there seems to be very little judgment used as to how far it is wise to go. Legislation is some times a good thing, but in most cases it is very bad and works more harm than good.

The administration seems to have a desire to do something. The Governor wants to make good and the Republican organization itself if reports are true, is mad with ambition to do something. Well it looks very much like if a few things that have been going on will react against individuals, and if more care is not used will react against the Republican organization.

The handwriting on the wall ought to be sufficient. If it is true that the Governor, the Vares and Senator Crow compose the influence back of House Bill 1471 and that bill becomes a law, there will surely be a day of reckoning. This bill provides the means of doubling the registration fee on automobiles. In other words the ambition seems to be to make a target out of the man who owns an automobile. To use him as a source of revenue creator for the state. To work a hardship on him by giving power to assess him from $20 to $60 a year as a penalty for owning a car. In other words to overburden him. The man who has a pleasure car for his family is to be given to understand that he has no business with such luxuries and the penalty that is visited upon him is to be such that he will feel that only the wealthy class are supposed to have automobiles. Sort of class legislation as it were. The same thing practically as the trading stamp bill. Intended to drive people out of business. If it is wrong to drive an automobile, legislate to stop cars from moving over the highways. If it is wrong to handle trading stamps, legislate to stop their sale in the state. Don't legislate to work a hardship on any class. If you do you have class legislation.

This bill to burden automobile owners is a flagrant insult to the intelligence and fair name of the state. If it is an organization measure it is a disgrace to the organization, and if it becomes a law, thousands of automobile owners and thousands more who some time contemplate owning automobiles will turn in and bump the organization so hard that it will sit up and take notice.

In the past four months $1,200,000.00 has gone into the coffers of the state from automobile owners. What do they want? What next? Men, keep your eyes on Harrisburg for there seems to be a dangerous bunch down there. They are after the enterprise, the vital institutions of the state. They want to do something. If you are an automobile owner, a contemplated owner or a sympathizer with your neighbor who owns a car, tramp on this thing. Write or wire your representatives to help kill this useless bill that is intended to work harm to your state and your community. It is a downright disgrace that such a bill has been proposed.

"Every newspaper man in the country is familiar with the above sentence which is sent him regularly by postmasters when subscribers to newspapers remove to some other locality and fail to notify the postmaster of their new location.

"Every newspaper man gets beat out of dozens of dollars every year by that class of fly-by-night fellows. That they are dishonest to the core is self-evident, that they would steal—if they had the opportunity—is a reasonable assurance. For they take the paper for as long a period as they can get it without paying for the same and then, when they remove to some other locality, they fail to notify the office of publication. This is a species of stealing that is worse than picking a man's pockets.

"The man who goes to a distant state and has his local paper sent to him month after month, and year after year, then beats the subscription, is a dead beat just several notches lower than a sheep thief and has about as much manhood as a mangy cur dog."

Wants National Convention

The Philadelphia Press puts it this way: "There is a strong sentimental reason, as well as those other reasons which have their practical application, why the Republican party, reunited as it is, should hold its next national convention in Philadelphia. It was here that the first Republican candidate for President was nominated fifty-nine years ago, and that event was really the substantial launching of the Republican party. That candidate of a new and not fully organized party was defeated by only sixty electoral votes in a total of two hundred and eighty cast by the two leading nations. Two Republican national conventions have met in Philadelphia since then; the one which renominated Grant in 1872 ad that which renominated McKinley in 1900, and the praise bestowed upon the city on each occasion for its hospitality and the completeness of its arrangements was the most complimentary character, but in every particular deserved."

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There are Other Monessen People Similarly Situated

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Monessen residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. W. Koerner, 119 Knox avenue, Monessen, says: "I had a bad fall which injured my back. I suffered from a constant pain across my loins and in the morning I was always worse. If I stooped over a sharp pain caught me and I could not straighten. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural and caused me annoyance I didn't rest well and rheumatic pains made it hard for me to get about. I was often so lame that I had to sit on cushions and I had puffy sacks beneath my eyes. I doctored and tried different medicines, but got no relief. Two boxes of Doans Kidney Pills, procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. drove most of the trouble away. I take this medicine off and on as a kidney tonic and it keeps me in good health."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Koerner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Bucalo, N. Y.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Attleboro, Mass.,—The services at the Christian church last Sunday were unique in that the pulpit was occupied by the twin sons of the regular pastor. The boys are studying for the ministry.

Salt Lake City, Utah—Charles S. Zane, former law partner of Abraham Lincoln, was found dead in his bed room here. The cause of death was apoplexy. He left Illinois in 1884.

Mount Morison, Colo.—John Brisbane Walker, former magazine publisher, now retired to a Colorado estate, has offered a site of 40 acres here for a home for newspapermen.

Chicago, Ill.—The year just closed has seen less railway construction than any year since 1895 when the whole country was "broke." Last year saw only 1500 miles of new railroad built.

Prescott, Ariz.—The ostrich farmers of the Southwest have been offering 150 of the birds at $5 each, with few takers. The feather and plume market has disappeared. It is likely that the birds will be turned loose.

Denver, Colo.—Buffalo Bill has relinquished the title of Colonel, and henceforth will be known as General William F. Cody. He has been appointed Judge Advocate-General of the military forces of Wyoming by Governor Kendrick.

Savannah, Ga.—Wearing a placard on which was her name, destination and 15 cents in parcel post stamps, six year old Edna Neff passed through the terminal station here on her way from Pensasola, Fla., to Christiansburg, Va., where her father awaited her. She weighed just under the fifty pound limit.

Arthur Clements, justice of the peace, was candidiate for re-election in Saginaw, Mich. Having lost both arms in a mine accident several years ago, he was elected two years ago on the Republican ticket and has proved an efficient officer. Through the use of ingenious contrivances he is able to turn the leaves of law books, write and answer the telephone all by the use of his teeth. Opposed to Clements, on the Democratic ticket, was George R. Hensmith, selected by his party in order that he might not have an advantage over his opponent, Hensmith has no legs.

Reformers Meet to Reform Taxes

Lansing, April 21—A conference on tax reform will be held here today, for a full and free discussion of plans for relieving the public of the growing burdens placed upon it by the present system. Not only are prominent Michigan reformers here in numbers, but many guests from outside states will aid the convention in the discussions. A sentiment was freely expressed as the conference opened that some system must soon be devised by which enterprise and industry shall not be discouraged by taxation. The attendance of prominent civic and business leaders from Detroit and other Michigan cities gives promise of a permanent organization which will work for definite methods of tax relief.

The sessions are planned for today in the Lansing Chamber of Commerce, and each will be made interesting by prominent speakers on taxation questions.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn. — "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do." — Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results

When Billy Sunday Came to Town

By ALEXANDER CORKEY

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly Co.

SYNOPSIS.

Reginald Nelson, a young Englishman of high birth, comes to this country to win fame and fortune. On the steamer he meets Albert Townley, a minister, Mrs. Graham and her pretty daughter, Joy.

Reginald goes to Bronson, home of his three new acquaintances, where he learns that Joy's father is a leading lawyer, who is the mainstay of a corrupt political ring. He gets a job.

The young Englishman enters the social life of Bronson. He falls in love with Joy, and later discovers that she is engaged to be married to Roland Gregory.

Allan Rutledge, another minister, and the Rev Mr Townley confer on the evil moral and laboring conditions in Bronson The reform element meets and decides to have Billy Sunday the noted evangelist aid in a "cleanup."

Editor Marchmount offers Reginald a position on his paper. The latter accepts, and later he performs a heroic act in stopping a dangerous runaway

Nelson starts on his work on the Courier He begins to investigate the suspicious death of Mae Mobray, a youthful worker in Roland Gregory's factory plant. The councilmen and saloon keepers oppose the coming of Billy Sunday.

"But he has never confessed Christ," answered Allan, "and the non-Christians of Bronson are already hiding behind him, as they do behind every good man who refuses to align himself with the Christian forces."

"I thought I was going to have that young immigrant in my church," said Albert Townley regretfully. "You know, I discovered him and directed him to Bronson, but you soon captured him"

"I plead not guilty," said Allan Rutledge. "It was our young people who captured Reginald. You know, he met Joy Graham on the boat."

"Of course I know that. I introduced them myself."

On the afternoon of the same day Allan Rutledge met by appointment with Mr Graham and his daughter, and he accompanied them to the great tabernacle which had been erected for the Sunday campaign.

The tabernacle was located in the northwest part of the city on a large vacant stretch of land. It was somewhat out of the way, and Mr Graham remarked as he approached it. "I am afraid, Dr. Rutledge, that you have made a mistake in the location of the tabernacle. It will be utterly impossible to draw the people out here."

"But we could not get ground enough any nearer," replied the minister.

"It would have been better to have built a much smaller building and had it full than to have this monster tabernacle half empty."

"It will be full from the first night and will be kept full during the entire five or six weeks of the meetings," responded Dr. Rutledge, with enthusiasm. "I know Mr Sunday's record too well to be disappointed."

"But Bronson people are different. They would not come out as far as this, no matter who is here"

"Do not the circus people camp here when they visit Bronson?" asked the other.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Graham, smiling, "but Mr. Sunday is no circus."

"He attracts the crowds better than the circus," answered Dr. Rutledge. "There is nothing that attracts men. Mr. Graham, like the religion of Jesus Christ, and Mr. Sunday presents it in a way that appeals to the average American citizen, especially the working people."

They had entered the tabernacle and were surveying its immense proportions.

"See our choir loft," said the minister. "We will have 1,000 singers seated there every night, won't we, Joy?" He turned to the young lady as he spoke. Miss Graham had been silent while her father and the minister discussed the outcome of the great effort.

"We will," the girl exclaimed in a joyful tone of voice "It will be a beautiful sight tomorrow night to see this great building all lit up with lights, filled with the people of Bronson, and with the singers massed behind the evangelist. I can see them listening to the old, old story, and I know that this tabernacle means a new Bronson by and by."

"A vision of joy," said her father mockingly.

"It is a vision of what is to be," said Dr. Rutledge confidently. "I trust, Mr. Graham, you will be able to attend these services regularly."

"I am afraid I cannot promise to be a constant worshiper in this tabernacle," said Mr. Graham. "The fact of the matter is, Dr. Rutledge, I will be glad when this business is over with and the community has returned to its regular mode of Sunday services. I fear the influence of Mr Sunday will be demoralizing, especially on the young."

"Our young people in Bronson are already demoralized," replied the minister in a severe tone.

"You are unfair to our city."

"I am speaking of the average young man in the city," answered the other quickly. "I am thankful for the company of earnest Christian young people which we have in association with Central church, but you must know, Mr. Graham, that the vast majority of the young men in Bronson take no serious interest in religion"

The three visitors stepped up on the rostrum. Allan Rutledge paused for a moment in front of the little stand from which the famous ex-champion of the baseball diamond was to deliver his messages of salvation to the people of Bronson.

"I liked very much the article which Mr. Marchmount wrote in the Courier of yesterday," said Dr. Rutledge, taking a newspaper from his pocket and opening it. "Have you read it, Mr. Graham?"

"No," answered the lawyer shortly.

"Let me read you a part of it," continued the minister, and he began to read the following editorial:

GIVE BILLY SUNDAY A HEARING

Mr. Sunday, popularly known as Billy Sunday, will arrive in our city the day after tomorrow He can do his own preaching without any help from the Courier. The records of the conversions at his meetings are so numerous, so real and so remarkable as to be astounding to his detractors As the evangelist expressed it himself, "He has seen more men hit the sawdust trail" than any living man, and no evangelist in America is in such demand as is Rev William A Sunday His records of victories in Ohio Pennsylvania, Illinois as well as in his native Iowa and on the Pacific slope surpass anything seen in this country since the early ministry of Dwight L Moody and the revivals in the days of Charles G. Finney We are inclined to believe that Mr. Sunday has not been humbugging the American people for a score of years since he left the baseball diamond to preach the Gospel At any rate it will be a privilege for our community to hear this remarkable man, and we are assured that our people will give Billy Sunday a hearing and will not pass judgment on him until they have heard his message and observed the results of his unconventional methods of preaching

The lawyer frowned and turned away.

"It will be difficult to win a man like Mr. Graham," said Allan Rutledge to himself

Had the minister followed the lawyer after he left the tabernacle he would have had still less confidence in the ability of Mr. Sunday or any other evangelist to reach Mr. Graham. Going directly to his office the lawyer found Bud McCrea awaiting him with some impatience.

"I expected to be back before this," said the lawyer, "but my daughter Joy persuaded me to accompany Dr. Rutledge out to the Sunday tabernacle this afternoon, and I have just returned."

"I want to see you about this — Sunday campaign, as these preachers call this Sunday graft business," responded the other, with an oath. "It seems that the council ordinance is a failure. Marchmount's jibes at it have made it useless."

Mr. Graham looked grave as he answered: "I have noticed that Marchmount's paper is getting somewhat sensational of late. He is playing to the mob. I think that his new city reporter is in part to blame."

"That fellow is the worst proposition that ever struck our town," said McCrea, waxing indignant. "He interviewed me, along with the rest, about the Sunday meetings, and he had the nerve to print everything that I said. He is making me ridiculous before the community"

"Did you see Marchmount about it?" asked Mr. Graham.

"Sure, I did," answered the other vehemently. "I went to him the first thing, but he just laughed at me."

Just then the door opened, and Roland Gregory stepped into the room and began a story of a grievance which he also had against the Courier.

"That impudent young Englishman whom Marchmount has turned loose on this community was at the factory this morning inquiring about conditions of the operatives, the average wage of the employees and a lot of other impertinent questions. He acted as though he owned my office and said that the conditions in my factory were of public interest and that he represented the public."

"I tell you, Graham, we must do something to that Courier or it will ruin Bronson," chimed in McCrea as the lawyer sat silent after Gregory's outburst.

"I will see Marchmount about it," said the lawyer finally, "but I am afraid we can't influence him much until after this Sunday business is over. At any rate, the paper will be fully occupied with the tabernacle meetings for the next few weeks, and I don't think there will be much interest in anything else while the clown, Sunday, is in Bronson"

"But after these meetings are over," responded McCrea ruefully. "I am afraid things will be worse than ever. It will finally end up with the preachers running this town if we are not careful."

CHAPTER VIII.

Regenerating a City.

WILLIAM A. SUNDAY, the evangelist, arrived from Chicago on a morning train and was at once taken to a large furnished house which had been set apart for him and his family during his stay in the city. He was accompanied by his wife and his younger children. In addition to his immediate family he had a number of assistants in his company.

"This looks like business," said Allan Rutledge to himself, as he met the party at the train and was introduced to the large band of gospelers. The building of the immense tabernacle, the discussion of the value of Mr. Sunday's work in a community, the newspaper advertising which was given to the enterprise, and, above all, the bitter opposition of the enemies of Mr. Sunday assisted in centering the attention of the entire city on the evangelist from the time of his entrance into Bronson.

In the evening long before the time announced for the beginning of the first service, the roads leading in the direction of the tabernacle were black with people. It was a cold, snowy night, and many feared that it would be impossible to heat properly the vast structure, but they came anyway, clad in furs and heavy overcoats, willing to endure the cold rather than miss the first service of the meetings.

The experienced janitor, who was in Mr Sunday's employ, had taken immediate charge of the tabernacle on his arrival and had supervised the heating and ventilation, and when the crowds began to fill the building they found it warm and comfortable as a church. The floor of the tabernacle was covered with sawdust, which made a clean and warm kind of carpet. "The sawdust trail," which soon became a common expression in Bronson, referred to the sawdust aisles down which the penitents passed in going forward to confess their faith.

The chorus leader had already assumed the command, and the vast choir of upward of 1,000 voices was singing enthusiastically, leading the great audience of 10,000 people, in the well known and ever popular hymn, "Rescue the Perishing," when Mr. Sunday himself appeared.

Down in the human heart, crushed by the tempter,
Feelings lie buried which grace can restore,
Touched by a loving hand, wakened by kindness
Chords that are broken will vibrate once more.

As the multiplied thousands sang the familiar words they seemed to throb with a new meaning, and the billows of sacred song reverberated in mighty volume through the tabernacle and far out over the city Reginald Nelson was sitting at the press table on the platform gazing out over the sea of eager upturned faces, while this verse was being sung when his eye caught

TWO TOO MANY ON COMMISSION

Governor Said to Favor Cutting Down Number.

RECALLING NAMES CAUSED STIR

Belief Prevails That Five of Present Seven Will Be Permanent, Providing They Give Assurance of Putting on More Speed—Legislative News.

Harrisburg, April 20.—As the adjournment time approaches affairs about the capitol take strange and unexpected turns. What stirred the members, perhaps, more than anything else this session occurred last week when Governor Brumbaugh recalled from the senate the names of the public service commission, which have been reposing in the committee on executive nominations since former Governor Tener left office.

Whether the senate has the authority to hold the Tener nominations against the wishes of the present governor is a question, as is the return of the nominations in case the senate is inclined to act upon them. But this dispute regarding procedure—if it can be termed a dispute—is not causing nearly as much agitation as the actual fact that the governor saw fit to withdraw the names and start all over again, so to speak, in the matter of the personnel of the public service commission.

Governor Brumbaugh believes the public service commission is too large. He would reduce it from seven to five Some think that in this way he will be able to drop Walter Gaither from the board without giving his predecessor in office a direct slap. The statement is made in some quarters that he will return to the senate the names of Pennypacker, Brecht, Wright, Tone and Johnson, thereby dropping Gaither, who has not the favor of the governor, and Wallace, who for nearly a year has been endeavoring to quit the job.

The new governor has some pronounced views on the work of the public service commission, and if he decides to retain five of the present seven he will not do so until he has reached a definite understanding with them regarding certain things that have led to much criticism One of the chief complaints is the length of time the commission takes in deciding cases. Instead of quick action months usually elapse before a decision is rendered

When the general assembly created the commission it had in mind first and foremost the expeditious handling of cases, but this result has never been reached. On the contrary, the commissioners not only sit and act as judges, but take as much time in deciding a case as does the supreme court. It is probable that if the governor cannot improve those conditions he will "fire" the entire board.

First and serious steps toward the holding of a constitutional convention were taken recently when a bill was prepared providing for the appointment of a commission to study the question, assemble data and gather literature and information for the use of the delegates to any such convention. The preparation of this bill however, followed a conference of the organization state leaders, at which it was decided, so far as they were concerned, that this legislature would not order the holding of a convention. Therefore, to appease those urging the convention idea, the leaders determined on the commission plan.

The bill embodying this plan was submitted to Attorney General Brown, who at once gave it his approval. It provides for the appointment of a commission and makes the attorney general chairman of the commission. The governor would appoint six members, the president pro tem of the senate, two, and the speaker of the house, two Those serving on the commission who do not hold any office of honor or profit under the commonwealth would be paid at the rate of $7000 a year in addition to their expenses. The bill carries an appropriation of $75,000 for the expenses and salaries of the commission

The commission is to report to a constitutional convention if one be held prior to January, 1917. If no convention be held prior to that time, then the report is to be made to the general assembly.

Frank's Case Up to Governor

Unless the governor of Georgia stays the death by an official act, Leo M. Frank will meet his death on the gallows. Frank maintains his innocence of killing Mary Phagan, an employ in his office. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence mostly on account of the story of a negro ex-employe. Jewish people all over the nation and countless others have been thoroughly aroused in the interest of Frank, and are interceding for him.

One of the most convincing arguments in favor of the convicted man is the fact that a reward of $5,000.00 offered for proofs of Frank's degeneracy remains unclaimed. The legal murder of an innocent man is entirely uncalled for.

Hunter Shows are Assembling for the Season

The assembling of the Harry C. Hunter shows here is progressing finely and his people are arriving every day. The shows will open about May first on the Wireton grounds. They will be greater and better than ever. Mr. Hunter has been here for the past several days and has written for all of his attractions to be here by the first of next week.

When the people all arrive and the workmen get started assembling the show it means a veritable little business boom for the local merchants as all the supplies, provisions and everything used in connection with the shows is purchased from Monessen merchants. The lumber for the construction work will be purchased from the lumber dealers here, clothes will be purchased from the clothiers and depatment store people. In this way the town will benefit in many ways by having the show open here.

When the show leaves here it is expected that it will take from twenty to twenty five cars to carry all of the equipment and this equipment will be largely purchased in Monessen. Mr. Hunter announces that all of his attractions are clean and conducted in a manner that all members of the family can go to the grounds at any time with perfect safety and enjoy one of the best shows on the road.

GIVES UP LEGACY FOR HEART'S DESIRE

Boston, Mass., April 21—Just three years ago Mrs. Marie Tudor Garland, the famed society widow who was left the income of $10,000,000 left by her husband, gave up her millions to wed At the Garland home at Buzzard's Bay she married Francis G. Green, her financial adviser and caretaker of her estate. The love for which she gave up her millions is shattered and she is again free.

Love has played a severe game with pretty Marie Tudor, who comes of one of the leading families of aristocratic Boston. Great joy and great sorrow have come alternately into her love affairs. She was married, divorced and remarried to James A. Garland, sportsman and yachtsman. Her first wedding, at the age of 23, was one of the brilliant social events of its season in Brookline. After a year's tour of Europe, a baby came to soothe differences away that were said to have arisen in Europe. Everything was happiness in the Garland home for six long years. In the summer of 1900 society heard that all was not well with them. Soon followed a separation. Mrs. Gardand taking her four children to live with her. Then came reconciliation, and the Garlands were said to be extremely happy when suddenly Mrs. Garland entered suit for divorce. The case was bitterly contested, but she won her decree.

A year elapsed and then society heard that the Garland yacht had put into Hyannisport with its owner aboard and that Mrs. Garland and the children had gone aboard. Love again arose from its ashes, and the reunited family landed at Bristol, R. I., where the Garlands were re-married. They then went to New York to live, but their happiness was again broken in September, 1906, when Garland died, his wife nursing him to the end.

The widow returned to Boston and lived quietly with her children. She was given the income from the $10,000,000 fortune of her husband, on condition that she never marry. After six years of widowhood, she suddenly announced her engagement to Green, who had been caretaker of her estate and adviser in financial matters. He is the son of the late Commander Francis M. Green, U. S. N., and a descendant of James Otis.

The wedding took place at Buzzard's Bay on April 22, 1912, in the presence of the Garland children and a few friends. The couple toured Europe, and were said to be happy, although society continued to talk of the big forfeit which the widow paid for her new found happiness. Within two years the romance was shattered, and divorce was sought by Mrs. Green, her husband not contesting.
